

You might have noticed a online key combination help popup when you use the Unicode Indic converters in this website. Due to the buggy display of online help and key map, The way it displays has been modified. Now, the online help is displayed on top of the textarea where you enable Tamil typing. The map position also made dynamic to show just a bit below the current active scrolled window, Hence it will be visible to the user.

If you are using these converters offline or for tamil typing in any of your websites, Please download the latest ucredit.zip in the downloads section (or you can also download and overwrite the updated code from <http://www.higopi.com/script/ucedit/common.js>
